Labor Notes

Unless the longshoremen of Boston recede from their stand with regard to a higher scale of wages and accept the compromise offered by the stevedores, the Boston waterfront seems likely to be the centre of a big strike.

While the number of Chinese in California is gradually diminishing, such is not the case in the East.
New York, for instance, in 1880 had only 905; in 1890 they had increased to 2835; and in 1900 to 7170. Of this latter number only 142 were females.
At the present time the estimated number of Chinese in the state of New York exceeds 12,000.

More men are killed and maimed in Allegheny county, Pa., in peaceful pursuits in one year than were killed and wounded in the great battles of history. Statistics for the year just past show that there were killed and injured in the iron and steel mills and blast furnaces 9300; in other mills, shops and factories 4000 were scalded and either died or were maimed, while coal mines swelled this figure to 4000 more. Railroad victims include an additional 400, making up a grand total of 17,000 who were slaughtered or injured in one year.

The Cigar Makers' Union have been voting on a referendum whether they will hold a convention next September. The general organization has not held a convention for nearly ten years, but elects officers and does all its business by the referendum.

In Chicago and New York one of the results of the printers' strike is beginning to show itself in favor of the men. Small shops which for years were non-union are organizing and adopting the label and putting some of the striking printers to work.

WHO WILL WEAR THE GAZETTE DIAMONDSTwo Beautiful Gems To Be Awarded By Popular Vote.

CAMPAIGN WILL BE STRENUOUS

Beautiful "Star Spangled Banners" For Second Trophies--Clip The Ballots Tonight.

Beginning with this issue The Gazette inaugurates a spring campaign in which all may vote—early and often, and in which the ladies are to be given an equal opportunity with the gentlemen in the vote-getting line.

The idea is born of a desire to identify The Gazette more fully with the splendid progress which is being made by the various organizations of our city and county, whether church, fraternal, social or labor in character and at the same time to offer a suitable testimonial to those whose efforts have been given to the growth and prosperity of these societies.

With this in mind four trophies or prizes have been selected, consisting of two handsome solitaire diamond rings and two beautiful silk society bags and the readers of The Gazette everywhere and the public generally are invited to say by their votes to whom they shall be awarded.

The Gazette diamonds are just such trophies as anyone might be proud to win and wear, and in every organization of Rock county there are many whose friends would gladly vote them just such tokens of their good will and esteem.

They can be placed in nomination by simply clipping the ballots published herewith, filling them out with the names of those whom the voter favors and then mailing or sending them to the polling place in The Gazette office.

As soon as a reasonable number of ballots are received—a hundred or more—a bulletin will be prepared, giving the names of those voted for,
and the number of votes received by each, and the revised returns of each day's voting will be published in each issue of The Gazette thereafter during the campaign.

It should be remembered that everyone may vote freely by simply clipping the ballots.

There are no boundary or other restrictions on the voter except that votes must be cast for members of a Rock county society or organization. The time to begin clipping the ballots for those you would like to see win is right now, for in campaigns such as this they vote twice who vote early.

Clip the ballots now, fill them out properly, and then bring or send them to the polling place, and then watch for the bulletin to tell you how many of your friends are similarly remembered.

The regulations which will govern are published herewith.

They have been designed to meet every requirement of fairness and accuracy and there will be no deviation from these provisions. The balloting begins today—as soon as you as one of the voters—are ready and will close at 7 o'clock p. m., Saturday, April 14.

The diamonds will be on display at the jewelry store of Hall & Sayles, and the star spangled banners will follow a few days later. Go and see them but don't forget to vote for

JUDGE DUNWIDDIE

The Man And The Jurist—Opinion Of The Watertown Paper
On His Re-election.

In discussing the circuit judgeship contest The Watertown Daily Times has the following on Judge Dunwid-die:

"Our readers will be interested at this time in something personal about our present circuit judge, B. F. Dunwiddie, who is a candidate for re-election this spring.

"Judge Dunwiddie was born on a farm in the town of Decatur, Green county, in 1848. He is of Scotch-Irish descent on his father's side and of German descent on his mother's side.
His father, David Dunwiddie, was a man widely known, a man of strong personality and high character, and a brother of Judge Brooks Dunwiddie of Monroe, who was county judge of Green county for over forty years.

"Judge Dunwiddie is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, first from the College of Letters and Science, and later from the College of Law, graduating from the latter in the class of 1875; among his classmates were Judges Winslow, Barbee and Kerwin of our supreme court and Judge Sherwin of the Iowa supreme court. After graduation Judge Dunwiddie entered the office of Judge

JUDGE DUNWIDDIE

Cassaday, now chief justice of our supreme court, then practicing in Janesville. Subsequently in 1876
Judge Dunwiddie formed a partnership with Hon. Pilsbury Norcross and was engaged in the active practice of the law from 1876 to June, 1899, when upon the death of Judge Bennett he was unanimously recommended by the bar of Rock county and was appointed by the governor to his present office, and was elected at the following election.

"During his practice at the bar of twenty-four years Judge Dunwiddie came in contact with the ablest lawyers of the state and received an extensive and varied training and experience in the law. In June next Judge Dunwiddie will have had seven years' experience as circuit judge, during that time he has been almost steadily engaged in the hearing of cases not only in his own circuit but has presided at the request of other circuit judges in most of the other circuits of the state. He was chosen by the parties to hear the case of the Equitable Life Insurance company against Insurance Commissioner Host at Madison in 1904, one of the most important cases ever tried in Wisconsin, involving many millions of dollars, and wherein his opinion was widely commended.

"Judge Dunwiddie's service upon the circuit bench has shown him to be capable, fearless and upright, combining careful and painstaking investigation of all matters brought before him and absolute fairness and impartiality with great rapidity in the transaction of business. His rulings and decisions have been universally recognized as fair and just, and the records of the supreme court show that that body on appeals has largely approved of his decisions.

FIELD OF CABBAGE ON CORPUS CHRISTI BAY, GULF OF MEXICO, NEAR THE LANDS OF FISH, LEE & FISH, EVANSVILLE, WIS.

"Judge Dunwiddie is noted as a forceful and eloquent public speaker, a man of great industry and energy, and he is very popular, not only with members of the bar, but with people in every walk of life, for kind heartedness and geniality which never fail.

"The judge gave up a fine law practice to go upon the bench, and his friends feel that it would be a great injustice to him not to re-elect him now after his first term, while in view of his great ability, learning and experience in the law and his upright, impartial and fearless course as a circuit judge, and they say a failure to re-elect him would also be against the best interests of the people of the circuit."

HO FOR TEXAS, A LAND OF RICHESEMPIRE OF THE WEST—A LAND OF DISTANCES.

VERY RICH FERTILE SOIL

Another Excursion to Southwestern Regions is Planned for March 20th.

Few persons really realize the immensity of Texas until they visit the Lone Star empire. It is truly an empire rather than a state. When the Texans made their fight for freedom from Mexican rule they formed a republic. Later this republic was united to the states. When one stops to consider that Texas today is even bigger than the Texas of the forties, a state so large that all of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales could be lost in it and that even the empire of Kaiser Wilhelm is a fourth smaller and France, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Denmark could all be comfortably lodged inside its borders, an idea may be obtained of its vastness.

Its Size

Why Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa could all be dropped inside its borders and then room left for some of the New England states. Texas is an empire.
Towards this empire people from all parts of the country are going. The old days of the covered wagon and the long trail are ended. Pullman coaches and swift rolling tourist cars now reach all points. When Texas becomes as thickly populated as the New England states it will contain a population of seventy-four million people.

The Distances.
From Toxline to Brownsville it is as far as from Chicago to New Orleans and from Texarkana to El Paso from Chicago to New York. Several excursions have been run from Evansville to this vast empire recently under the direction of Fish, Lee and Fish. One more at the present rate, $30.15 from Evansville and return will be made on the 20th of the present month and then this rate ends.

Not Half Told

To persons who seek to investigate for themselves this great territory it is the opportunity of a life time to go cheap. Persons who have visited Alice and its vicinity claim that Mr.
Lee in his recent articles does not tell half the truth about it and that it is an ideal spot for crops, health and comfort. It is not going to the frontier to go to Texas nowadays. Texas is already a settled community but it is still in its infancy of development. Lands are cheap, rich and fertile. A poor man can go there and own his own home. By his own labor he can make more in two years than he could in five in northern country. One must not judge Texas by certain localities. Texas is so big that what happens in the northern portion, the one most known of all presently, is not true to the southern section. One associates Texas with the great cattle ranges of the past decades.

Land of Dreams.
The typical Texan is a man with "chaps," spurs, a soft broad brim hat and flannel shirt and gaudy handkerchief. While this is the picturesque Texan of some sections the southwestern section is strictly agricultural. Rich fertile lands waiting only waiting the plow to create vegetable life to spring into existence in profusion it is rapidly forging to the front in the garden markets of the world.

Its Products.
When one stops to consider that Texas has more timber than Michigan, more oak than West Virginia, more iron than Alabama, more marble than Vermont, more corn land than Illinois, more wheat land than the Dakotas, more fruit land than California, more tobacco land than Virginia or Wisconsin, more water mel-border until it bids the whole world welcome.

The Richest Section.
In the southwestern portion is a rich country. To this section Messrs.
Fish, Lee and Fish direct the attention of the prospective home seeker to the excellent soil and crops, tapped by excellent railroad facilities the claim to have the ideal home for the small or large farmer in order to place this land before the citizens of Rock county they are going to conduct another excursion there the 20th of the present month at the nominal rate of $30.15 for the round trip and whether you buy or not it is an opportunity to see the greatest country on the American continent at a reduced figure. Pending railway legislation congress may affect the rates in the future and this is the time to go.

A Hearty Welcome.
The Lone Star state will welcome you and you will have at most enjoyable and instructive trip. People go to Europe to visit the old world.
Go to Texas to visit the new.

DEATH BY INDIGESTION

A Long Train Of Fatal Ills Is The Direct Result Of Undigested Food.

Undigested food, by fermenting, forms a poison in the stomach and this is absorbed in the blood. If this goes on very long, and your heart happens to be weak, you'll be found some morning dead in bed, or you may fall back down the stairs about an hour and a half after dinner, and the doctor will call it heart disease.
Yes, that may be the result, but not the cause. The cause is indigestion.
Indigestion is a simple, common word, but it has a terrible import, and so you may get it, too, and die suddenly while you're standing.

If you have a weak liver, the poison of undigested food will attack it and you will get jaundice. If you have weak kidneys, you will get Bright's Disease or diabetes, from which there is no rescue for any man.

It was a learned physician who said that the progress of a race depended upon the stomachs of its members.
And you have at some time in your life eaten a heavy meal, or eaten in a hurry, and felt that "lump of lead" immediately afterward. That lump of lead is a hard ball of undigested food.
The stomach can't digest it, and finds it hard to throw it out. And so it sours, and it makes you sour and everybody sour who talks with you.
It gives you a bad breath and is building for you the road to dyspepsia and death, unless you stop it.

Stop it with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Just think, Stuart's Little Tablets are every bit as powerful as the gastric juice in your stomach.
One grain will digest 3,000 grains of food. Isn't this wonderful? And it is true, just try it and prove it.

If you have any brash, gas on the stomach, fermentation, burning, bloating, bloaty feeling, indigestion, dyspepsia, or heartburn, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will make it disappear before it can do any harm to your heart or other organs.

They will invigorate the stomach, relieve the stomach of two-thirds of its work and give it a chance to rest.
They will increase the flow of gastric juice, and if you will ever "live" in your lifetime, it will be after you have eaten a good, hearty meal, and taken one of these little tablets immediately afterward. You'll just feel fine.

Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets
after your next meal today and you will use them over afterward. You will be cheerful, vigorous, and your mind will be clear. You'll have snap and vim, and add many a day to your life.

You can get these wonderful little tablets at any druggist's for 50c a package.

== FORTY YEARS AGO ==

Jamesville Daily Gazette, Friday, March 9, 1866.—Serious Accident.—A very severe accident occurred this morning in the reaper factory of Mr. Hezekiah Smith to a man named Segur. He was at work about a circular saw when a stick flew back with great violence striking him in the side and inflicting a severe wound. It was at first feared that death would be the result of the blow, but we understand that the indications at present are that the injured man will get along.

Wanted—Two Hundred Tenements.—Two hundred good dwelling houses are absolutely needed to meet the present demand of the people who are already here and would come here if they had where to lay their heads. Who will build them? Rents are frightfully high, which is bad enough, but there is nothing but the most inferior buildings to be had. How many of our capitalists will build half a dozen good houses during the summer? One hundred little cozy tenements fit for small families of mechanics, clerks and railroad men, might be leased at paying figures before a blow is struck toward their completion. There is not, at this present writing, one first rate house that is for rent in the city of Jamesville. If we had the buildings now ready for occupancy, there would be one thousand more people here before the trees shed their leaves in the fall than there is today.

Will They Claim It?—Pending the action of the Common Council last spring, on the license question, quite a number of those who sell liquor, deposited with the city treasurer the sum of $25.00, to pay for their license. The Council refused to grant licenses at that figure, and as it was impossible to get a vote in that body fixing the license higher, no disposition has been made of the money. But after the lapse of nearly a year, during which time those depositing money have been selling liquor, some of these parties come forward and claim their money. The matter has been before the Council and while it is conceded that these men may demand their money, the purpose was quite decidedly expressed that if they did so, they should at once be prosecuted for selling liquor without a license. We hope it will be done should these men presume to demand their money.

The New York Tribune calls attention to the fact that Senator Doolittle's example does not influence a single Republican member of either Senate or Assembly in this State.

News for the Railroad Men.

Northwestern Road.—Engineer Walters is off duty and switchengine number 124 was taken last evening by F. A. Shumway.

Fireman Russell will lay off tonight and his place on the Watertown-Rockford passenger run will be taken by J. B. Kaufman.

Though the heaviest business of the season usually comes during the cold weather of February, the present time this year seems to be the height of the season. More freight is moving now than has been thus far this winter.

St. Paul Road.—Train signs and stands have been sent here from the Milwaukee offices and are hereafter to be used in showing the destination of the trains as they stand on the platform. Such a manner of denoting the various trains that leave between the hours of ten and eleven in the morning have been needed for some time, as the trainmen and policeman John Dalton are kept busy directing passengers to their trains. At the hour mentioned five trains arrive in the city and three depart, while a fourth leaves at 11:20. The result daily is confusion.

Railroad officials were greatly perturbed by the movement of large quantities of flour from Kansas City to European ports by a tariff published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road recently, and a cry that the tariff was too low was raised. A thorough investigation revealed that the tariff was based upon actual rates and that the St. Paul had not acted irregularly in the case, although it had been successful in getting a large business.

Western railroads are considering the proposal of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road to reduce freight rates between the Atlantic seaboard and the Missouri river fifteen per cent. The same proposition was made by the Great Western several weeks ago, but no affirmative action was taken. The question will be considered at a meeting of the executive officers next Tuesday.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES

One of the intellectual, dramatic treats which the theatre-going public will be offered the present season will be that of the German-English tragedian, Edward Walmann, arrangements for whose coming have just been completed. His work has been highly praised by the press of Germany, England and in the East. The cities of this country, where his characterizations of Shylock in The Merchant of Venice, David Garrick and Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde have been classed as masterpieces of dramatic art, ranking with those of the greatest tragedians of the country.

Edward Walmann, the young German-English tragedian, is the latest European actor of prominence to visit this country, and will make a short tour in Shakespearean and classic dramas. He is considered one of the most versatile actors on standard plays on the German-English stage. The keynote of Mr. Walmann's success is his ability to sink his own identity in the character he is portraying and become for the time the creature of the play.

He comes to the Myers Grand next Friday when he will be seen in Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

PRODUCE MUCH LEAF IN SOUTH AMERICA

Large Amounts of Tobacco Grown and Manufactured into Cigars and Cigarettes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—According to a report issued by the Bureau of American Republics, there were 1,111 factories and workshops in the Argentine Republic devoted to the making of cigars and cigarettes in 1904, of which 193 were large establishments having a total capital of $7,529,944 national currency, and the remainder 923 smaller shops, producing in a year 18,895,525 pounds, of which 14,895,332 pounds were of tobacco raised in the same country.

A copy of the new Bolivian tobacco stamp tax law, which recently went into effect, has been received at the Bureau of American Republics. Every package of domestic foreign cigarettes is subject to a stamp tax, as follows: domestic cigarettes, in packages weighing 10 grams, or containing 10 cigarettes; inferior quality, two cents; superior quality, 4 cents; fine or extra fine quality, 8 cents. Foreign cigarettes of equal weight and number: inferior quality, 4 cents; superior quality, 8 cents; fine or extra fine, 16 cents. Any excess in weight or number of cigarettes in any of the qualities mentioned will pay double, and so on in the same proportional ratio.

Domestic cigars shall pay half a cent each up to 8 grams in weight. Each foreign cigar, not exceeding 8 grams in weight, shall pay four cents. The duties on these cigars shall be reduced to one-half, respectively, if each cigar does not exceed one gram in weight.

On foreign chewing tobacco a stamp tax of one boliviano for each kilogram is placed, and long-cut tobacco and snuff shall pay two bolivianos. Cigars and cigarettes that are exported shall be exempt from the stamp duty.

The sale and exportation of tobacco in the Republic of Colombia has been made a government monopoly by a recent decree of the President of that country. From September 1st of the present year no tobacco produced in Colombia can be exported and sold on account of private persons. From that date the importation into the country of tobacco and cigarettes in any form whatsoever is also prohibited, save that this prohibition shall not affect other articles necessary for manufacturing and putting up cigarettes. The last section of this decree reads as follows:

"The cultivation of tobacco is absolutely free in Colombia, as is also the introduction of seeds for the improvement thereof; growers shall, however, observe all such regulations as may be adopted hereafter with a view of preventing fraud to the prejudice of the treasury."

Put a Bull Behind the Bars

We call especial attention to the hinge joint at each intersection of stay with main bars. This is the essential of every good wire fence. Unless the stay has a hinge joint the fence cannot receive pressure from contact and right itself. All right stay fences have been unsatisfactory and disappointing as they crush down and when once down, remain so.

AMERICAN FENCE

is made with a hinge joint, by which the maximum of elasticity is secured and the fence if properly stretched, remains in place indefinitely. With the hinge joint, no amount of strain on the bars can effect the connection of stay and bar, while the opposite is true of all rigid stay fences.

 Emerald Grove, March 8.—It is with deep regret that announcement is made of the intended departure of our pastor, Reverend W. E. Davidson, and his family. Although they have been with us only two and a half years, the congregation has learned to love them. They will not only be missed in the church and social circles and in the home, but the children will be missed in the school room where they have become favorites with teachers and schoolmates. A farewell gathering will be held tomorrow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ransom and the occasion will doubtless be mingled with pleasure and sorrow. Next Monday they will depart for their beautiful country home near Bangor, Mich., where all join in hoping that Mr. Davidson may regain his health. They take with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends.
 A farewell party was given in hon-

 The sick are on the gain. Spring is coming. Look out for a blizzard soon.

INSURANCE MEN HAILED TO COURT
 Officers of Mutual Reserve Are Indicted by the Grand Jury.
HEAVY BAIL BONDS EXACTED
 President and Two Others Furnish Security in the Sum of $12,500 Each for Their Appearance in Court of General Sessions.

New York, March 9.—Frederick A. Burnham, president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, his brother, George Burnham, Jr., and George D. Eldridge, vice president of the company, were indicted Thursday for grand larceny and forgery.
 There are five indictments against each. They appeared before Judge O'Sullivan of general sessions, and each was held in $12,500 bail, which was furnished in each instance by Richard Deever, a builder. The indictments are a result of the investigation that has been going on in the district attorney's office for several months.
 The two Burnhams and Eldridge are charged with having misappropriated the funds of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life association, which was the name of the Mutual Reserve in 1901, to settle private claims, and that false entries were made in the books of the company under their direction to cover the outlay of the money.
 Larceny and Forgery.
 The larceny indictments charge the embezzlement of $7,500 and $1,500. The forgery indictments set forth that entries were made in the books of the company in order to cover these thefts.
 George Burnham, Jr., when seen at the company's office after the jury's action had been announced, said:
 "We had been expecting this and have engaged counsel to defend us. Aside from stating that if there has been any crime committed it is but a technical one, I do not care to discuss the case."
 In the first case of alleged forgery the indictment charges that $7,500 was entered in the cash book as paid to Nicholas & Bacon, attorneys of P. E. Armstrong, to settle a claim of Armstrong against the insurance company, arising out of the contract between him and the company. In fact, however, the indictment charges the money was paid to Nicholas & Bacon in settlement of an action which they, as attorneys, for J. Douglas Wells, had previously brought against Frederick A. Burnham individually.
 Alleged Illegal Entries.
 Another of the forgery charges sets forth that on Oct. 24, 1901, $1,500 was paid to James Schell & Elkus, which was entered in the company's books as payment for legal services when really the money was to be turned over to James D. Wells to reimburse him for expenses incurred by him in bringing suit against Burnham & Eldridge.
 The third indictment for forgery alleges that $5,000 was paid to James Schell and Elkus, ostensibly on the books for legal services, when it was handed over to Baldwin & White, lawyers, who represented J. Thomson Patterson. The money was paid to the lawyers, according to the indictment, in settlement of a suit brought by J. Thomson Patterson against F. A. Burnham and Eldridge.
 Libel Suits Are Settled.
 Patterson was assistant secretary of the Mutual Reserve company and Armstrong, an agent and policy holder. They and Wells left the company about the same time. Soon after there appeared certain statements in an insurance paper charging Burnham and Eldridge with misappropriation of the funds of the company. Specific instances were cited where it was alleged Burnham and Eldridge had handled the money of the company for their own use.
 Suits were instituted by Burnham and Eldridge against Patterson and Armstrong. They brought counter suits in a short time Patterson was arrested for criminal libel. But before either civil or criminal actions came to trial the suits were settled and there were no proceedings against either Armstrong or Patterson.

WHIRLS TO HER DEATH WHILE CLOTHES BURN
 Woman, Who Attended Fire Worshipers' Lectures, Saturates Raiment With Oil and Applies Match.

Chicago, March 9.—Visits to the home of Ottoman Zar Adusht Hanish, high priest of the fire worshippers cult, are believed to have led to the suicide of Miss Mattie Smith, at 4325 Greenwood avenue yesterday. Saturating her clothes with oil she applied a match and whirled about in the coal cellar of her mother's home until death ended her sufferings.
 At the inquest her brother, William Smith, stated that she was not a believer in the Hanish cult, but declared that she frequently had attended lectures.
 Miss Smith had been mentally deranged for two years before her death and occasionally showed signs of acute insanity. In one of these spells, following a week of suffering from melancholia, she sent her aged mother across the street on an errand, and when the latter returned she found her daughter dead. The shock was severe and Mrs. Smith now is in a serious condition.
 Miss Smith was 53 years old.

LOBSTERS' BAD CHARACTER.
 Surly, Suspicious and Unsociable and Regards Everything as Food.

The Scotch fishery board in its twenty-third annual report gives the following as the characteristics of the lobster, says American Shipping. It is an essentially surly, suspicious and unsociable fish, and regards anything that comes near it as its foe. The main motive of its activity is defense, and in defending itself it manifests a blind and unreasoning vengeance. It procures a hole in which to wait for its prey, and to which to retire after a fight, and it is then unsafe for any animal to approach it.
 The keenness of attack and relentless hold when once it has gripped its antagonist are due to its want of sight. The eye of the lobster is so sensitive that strong light blinds it. Although it possesses keen sight when first hatched, the lobster is practically blind later in life. It sees nothing properly, but simply has the sensation of light and shadow. It tests a shadow with its antennae and sometimes, when a strong shadow is cast on it, the lobster will leap at it on the off-chance that it is a foe.
 The fighting tendency makes it difficult to keep lobsters in confinement. When once they have settled down, however, they will live at peace with one another, but it is only an armed neutrality, and if one of the fish ever loses its fighting power it is at once attacked by the others.

STIFF PRICE FOR THE TEA.
 Extortious Demand of Pretty Actresses at a Charity Entertainment.

Cups of tea were sold at 55 each recently at a fete at the ministry of marine in aid of the Paris Art Orphanage. In addition to this those who took sugar and milk had to pay an extra $2.50 for the privilege of being allowed these luxuries, says the Boston Express.
 All the prettiest actresses were selling and all Paris was buying at prices that would have been abnormal were it not for the admirable cause. Mlle. Dietelle, the charming blonde, who is credited with possessing the prettiest smile and the most silvery laugh in Paris, sold tickets for a lottery for as much as she could get.
 Mlle. Lavalliere, of the Varieties, sold face powder at the rate of $20 the tiny box. It was Mme. Le Bargy, who not long ago appeared at the St. James with Mr. George Alexander, who carried out the tea extortions. Mme. Polaire sold sweets, and only took bank notes in payment.
 A very large sum must have been realized for the orphanage, which provides for the daughters of artists, authors, actors and musicians who have died penniless, keeps the girls until they marry and then provides them with a dowry.

SENATORS BY VOYE OF PEOPLE.
 Columbus, O., March 9.—The senate has adopted a joint resolution requesting congress to call a convention of the various states for the purpose of submitting an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of the United States senators by direct vote of the people. The resolution goes to the house.

True Independence.
 Independence is a great thing, but it is not to be carried too far, and the quickest way to it is frequently found by putting our independence in our pocket for a while, and benefiting by the experience of others.

CONFIDENCE OF COLUMBIAN.
 James Jackson Jarves in his "Art Thoughts" says: "Idealism bases itself on universal truths. It deals more with emotions and ideas than facts and action, opposing imagination to perception, on which realism chiefly rests."

The young fellow frowned. "What's that?"

"Ann went on, 'I think it's nice of you, Mr. Raymond, to abuse yourself to the rim of a kettle.'"

"Excuse me, lady, but—" He looked about for Baker.

"Ann interposed. 'That's twice you've called me lady. No real cowboy ever does that, I'm told, so you must be an impostor.'" Raymond's face flushed with anger. "See here! What has that fat jackass been saying to you about me?"

Ann, calmly smiling, made her charges specific. "You're not the cook. You're called Robert Raymond. You're the foreman and a graduate of Harvard university, like all superior cowboys, and you have gallantly volunteered to cook in order that we might eat. Now, isn't this true?"

Raymond was stunned for a moment, but as she went on his head lifted, and into his eyes leaped a spark of red light. "Wait till I sight that scoundrel. You'll have a fine chance to study, a cowboy in action. What else did he say?"

"He told us all about your fight with your rival. It was very thrilling. It's like being a character in a novel once. I'm quite excited by the thought."

"Raymond's eyes ceased to glow, a faint smile quivered at the corners of his lips as he bowed gracefully. 'Miss Rupert, permit me to astonish you still more. My name, though alternative, is my own. I have never killed a man.'"

He looked toward the door—"that incredible ass will be my first. I am not a graduate of Harvard, and I did not leave my native town between two days. Does this disappoint you?"

"Most deeply. Are there no magnificent circumstances?"

"None whatever. I am hopelessly commonplace. I'm not even a cowboy. I'm foreman of a hay ranch."

"You destroy our dreams. But these books are yours?"

Raymond's eyes wavered. "Well, yes—some of them, but I don't care to pose as the student rancher. The boys respect me now because I can ride a horse and pitch hay. I make it a point not to air my other accomplishments."

"He was interrupted by a series of faint yells, and as they all listened the swift trample of horses' hoofs could be heard. Louis springing up, all excitement, his eyes glowing."

"What is that—Indians?"

Raymond smiled at Ann. "No, only a bunch of cowboys passing. He stepped to the door to study their approach. 'It's a mob of Williams' men. I don't know what they're doing here.'"

The rush and trample of hoofs, swept nearer, and a group of five dark-colored horsemen drew up at the hitching pole with loud outcries, each man setting his pony on end with a wrench at the reins.

"Hello, Bob!" shouted the leader.

"Howdy, boys—howdy?" he replied coldly. It was plain he was not well pleased by their impromptu call.

"Got anything to eat?" asked one of them as he swaggered up.

"Sure thing. Tidy up and come in." Raymond, turning to Ann, said gently: "Perhaps you and the boy had better step into the other room. This gang is coming in."

"They're not dangerous?"

"No, but some of them are not fit to eat in the presence of a lady."

"Louis will want to see your guests."

"Very well," replied Raymond, and turned to meet his visitors, who appeared fresh from a hasty toilet.

"Come right in, boys. What's the best word from over the ridge?"

The man who entered first was a big, rawboned, wide mouthed, freckle faced fellow, who gaped in amazement as he caught sight of Ann. "Hello! What's all this?" he asked, hunching the man next him.

The insolent vulgarity of his tone brought a flush of anger to Raymond's face. "Shut up!" he commanded in a low voice. Then added in explanation, "Some of Barnett's folks visiting the ranch." At the moment he hated them all with a sudden realization of their essential cheapness and their filthy manners.

As they took seats each man glanced at Ann with furtive, devouring eyes, and she thrilled under the scrutiny as she would have done beneath the glare of a wolf. She had a sudden sense of danger. "I am getting close to the elemental man," she thought, and by contrast Raymond assumed new interest. Though his clothing was almost as rough as theirs, his face and voice betrayed good blood and refinement. She wondered whether Wayne Peabody could stand between such a mob of ruffians and a woman. This man Raymond dominated them easily.

Louis sat in one entranced studding the groupings in the sunset light, which had begun to dim a little. To him these men were heroic. Their physical hardihood, their slouching grace, their rumpled hair, their tag ends of kerchiefs and greasy belts and cuffs were all "bang up material." The avid glare under which Ann shivered was hidden from the eyes of the boy, but Raymond took note of every nod, every wink that passed, and once or twice he fixed his eyes on the man they called Speckle in a look which stayed a coarse jest upon his lawless lips.

They talked of the great new mining camp on the side of Mogaloy, where they were all bound. "They're striking it rich in the grass roots, and we're going up to take a hand in it. Why, last week they made three strikes on Pine mountain within fifteen feet of the surface. They say the placer is turning out $10 a day. So we're riding up to turn a rock on our own account. The cattle business is done for. Gold chasing is the game now."

"Say, Raymond," called out a little man down by the stove, "you'd better bustle out your gang and meet that fire. It's coming right over the ridge this way and is getting worse every minute."

Raymond's face betrayed keen interest. "I've been trying to locate that fire all day. It's over about Round Top, isn't it?"

"Oh, no. It's away this side. Looks like it's sure to take Williams' hay if he don't watch out, and yours too."

"Why didn't you ride over and see just where it was?" asked Raymond.

"Too busy," Speckle replied loudly, and the others laughed. "I'm after gold now. I'm sick o' forkin' hay."

Raymond's voice grew sterner. "You didn't leave Williams short handed to fight that fire?"

"No matter whether we did or not, we've got done. Our time was up; we've got our pay. He can fight his own fire, we're not responsible." They all laughed as though this were a good joke.

Raymond's next words were as cold and calm as they were unexpected. "You get up and get out o' here, every man of you. I mean now." His anger broke out as they started. "I don't care if it is for the best, but I have a feeling that something is going to happen to you. I don't like to go back without you. I'll stay on a day or two longer anyhow. I want to find out more about conditions here. I have a queer feeling at my heart. I don't want to leave you. Let us go in."

A kerosene lamp stood among the dishes, and the driver of their team and two late coming horsemen and the Mexican boy were all eating together. Raymond was not to be seen, and Ann realized, with a pang of dismay, how wholly she was depending upon him.

"Without him I shall be scared," she admitted to herself. The other men paid very little direct attention to her beyond a moment's awkward pause and a lowering of their voices. They continued to discuss the fire and their day's work. It was plain that they were of different temper from the crowd Raymond had thrown from the door, and yet they were not prepossessing.

The liveryman, a short, dirty and very assertive man of small wit, was maintaining himself against one of the riders in an argument. "I punched cattle all over them hills," he was saying. "I know it's all another fake like that old Mount Horse business in '70. It's nothing but a cattle range—a lot o' smooth bills."

"But they've found the gold. They can't be no question about it now. I've got a brother up there, and he writes me."

"They told the same kind o' yarns about Horse, and see how it turned out. They ain't an ounce o' gold in this whole Rampart range. It ain't the right kind o' formation."

"Well, I'm goin' up there anyhow," said Baker, "as soon as Barnett can fill my place."

"So am I," said one of the other cowboys, a dark, smileless fellow nearly forty years of age.

"They're talking about Sky camp," whispered Louis, "the new mining town."

The talk among the men shifted again to a discussion of the fire. "I hope Bob won't order us out to fight it tonight. I'm tired as a dog," said one of the men.

"The way I put it up is this," bleated the liveryman. "That fire started from somebody campin' over on Birch creek, and it's 'way beyond the ridge. It's got to cross that rocky wash before it can do any damage."

"Well, we'll know when Bob gets back," replied Baker, and Ann inferred from this that Raymond had ridden away to locate the fire, and heartily hoped he would not be gone long.

The men shoved back one by one and with shy, curious glances at the girl, sitting so cold and white and still against the wall, went out to smoke and discuss her with the driver. Baker, mindful of his duties, remained.

"Don't be uneasy, miss. One of us will stay here anyhow."

Louis was looking over his sketching material, his mind busy with plans for work, when a shout outside announced Raymond's return. The lad rushed to the door. "Oh, Ann, come quick!" he called a moment later. "Here he comes! Oh, can't he ride!"

Ann reached the door just as Raymond dashed up and swung from his saddle. His voice was not loud, but it was stirring. "Boys, the fire is climbing the ridge, and we've got to fight it. Gather up your blankets and gunny sacks. We'll find Williams over there with some water barrels. Hustle now! I'll be along a little later. Tom, you take charge, all I come."

With groans and half-jocular curses the weary men loyal to their duty, scattered to rope fresh ponies and gather up such material as they had for fighting flames, while Raymond came to the door and brusquely said to Ann: "I'll leave Baker to look after you, Miss Rupert. I hope you won't mind."

"Oh, certainly not," said Ann as firmly as she could.

"I'd like to go along," cried Louis.

"May I?"

"You're needed right here," Raymond sternly replied. "We're likely to be out all night, and your sister needs you."

"Condon't Baker go in your place?" asked Ann very quietly.

"Jack isn't very energetic. No, it's my duty."

"That's why I'd rather you stayed," Ann said. "If we should be attacked by Indians or anything, Mr. Baker might be asleep."

He laughed. "Indians? There aren't any within 200 miles of here."

"But you said you'd take care of us, and Mr. Barnett has consigned us to your care."

He warned beneath the allurement of her glance. "But how would it look for the boss to remain comfortably at home while a fire—"

"You're not the boss. You're only the cook."

shaken and dismayed. As he set to work to put the table in order, silent and sullen as before, she watched him from her corner with intent gaze. "How deeply can I trust him," she asked herself. "Don't admire him, and he certainly is a man of intelligence."

Louis, who had gone to see the sunset, called to her excitedly, and as she stepped outside the door she, too, caught her breath in wonder and admiration.

She turned to the dim purple range, crumpled into ridges and slashed with deep valleys. "They may be alluring to you, liddle, but they scare me—a little. Well, perhaps you'll be able to go and see what they are like by and by, when you are stronger."

"Perhaps Bob will take me. I would not be afraid of anything with him. He's a splendid type. Don't you think so?"

Ann smiled, but answered doubtfully, "He seems a fine, resolute fellow." Her sister's anxiety reappeared. "But I don't like to leave you here, Buddha. These men, the best of them, seem rough and reckless. I think you'd better go back with me—really I do."

"Oh, no! I'm all right here, sis. Bob will look after me. It's just what I need."

"Maybe it is for the best, but I have a feeling that something is going to happen to you. I don't like to go back without you. I'll stay on a day or two longer anyhow. I want to find out more about conditions here. I have a queer feeling at my heart. I don't want to leave you. Let us go in."

"You're needed right here," Raymond sternly replied. "We're likely to be out all night, and your sister needs you."

"Condon't Baker go in your place?" asked Ann very quietly.

"Jack isn't very energetic. No, it's my duty."

"That's why I'd rather you stayed," Ann said. "If we should be attacked by Indians or anything, Mr. Baker might be asleep."

He laughed. "Indians? There aren't any within 200 miles of here."

"But you said you'd take care of us, and Mr. Barnett has consigned us to your care."

He warned beneath the allurement of her glance. "But how would it look for the boss to remain comfortably at home while a fire—"

"You're not the boss. You're only the cook."

RATE BILL TANGLE

Measure in Danger of Being Killed by Its Advocates.

Washington, March 9.—Rapid changes are taking place in the senate with respect to the railroad rate situation. The criticisms of Senator Bailey have awakened the friends of the bill to a full realization of the importance of meeting upon some common ground from which they can proceed to enact a law that will be constitutional and effective. The majority of the democrats share with Mr. Bailey the belief that the Hepburn bill in its present form should not be passed. Their position is that with the courts open to the railroads the object of the law would be frustrated by injunctions and restraining orders. To prevent this they ask that the bill be amended so that interlocking decrees and orders shall not issue from the courts to suspend the rates fixed by the commission. As to the power of congress to enact such a restriction upon the courts, they have the opinion of some of the ablest lawyers who have served in the senate. The leading republican friends of the bill, Senators Dooliver and Clapp, have been told by the attorney general that in his judgment the amendment proposed by Mr. Bailey would be unconstitutional. They therefore oppose it. This creates a three-cornered fight out of which many complications may arise.

Senator Green is Acquitted.

Washington, March 9.—George E. Green, a former state senator of New York, was found by a jury not guilty of charges of conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States and to defraud the government. In connection with the sale of time-recording clocks to the postoffice department, Green was accused of having entered into a conspiracy with George W. Beavers, former superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances in the postoffice department. The indictment alleged that Green, on behalf of the concern of which he was president, agreed that upon every sale to the department through the influence of Beavers the latter was to get 10 per cent of the price.

Fight on Tuberculosis.

Washington, March 9.—A crusade against the spread of tuberculosis among the employees of the government service in Washington has been directed by President Roosevelt. He has issued an order to the heads of all departments, giving them explicit instructions as to their duties in combating the disease. Dismissal is to be the penalty for nonobedience on the part of any employee of the rules prepared by the committee appointed by executive order last December, and these rules will be posted in all federal buildings in the capital. Provision is made for the examination at government expense of all tuberculosis victims.

Cut in Appropriation.

Washington, March 9.—The house committee on appropriations has agreed to report a legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill carrying $29,134,131, as against $29,822,589 for 1906. A reduction of $1,135,573 from the estimates submitted to the committee by the various departments is made. Salaries are carried in the bill for sixty-five fewer persons than were provided for in the last bill, and the number of salaries contemplated in the estimates was reduced 236 by the committee.

Good Speech by Beveridge.

Washington, March 9.—Senator Beveridge, in one of the best speeches he has made in the senate, Thursday afternoon closed general debate upon the joint statehood bill. His effort was directed to demolish the arguments constructed by the opponents of joint statehood of Arizona and New Mexico. These opponents themselves admitted that Mr. Beveridge had met every issue raised by them, but the speech will not change a single vote in the senate.

Clean Paper Money.

Washington, March 9.—Representative Calhoun of Tennessee appeared before the house committee on banking and currency in the interest of clean paper money. He said the high charges of the express companies prevent the banks from sending dirty money to the treasury for reissuance, and urged the passage of his bill, which permits of free shipment by mail.

To Prosecute Sugar Suits.

Washington, March 9.—In the hope that the action eventually will assist in passing the now dormant Philippine tariff bill, the administration has announced that it has decided to prosecute the American Sugar Refining company and half a dozen railroads that have been giving it rebates on its western business, on the complaint of Mr. Hearst.

President Removes Officials.

Washington, March 9.—President Roosevelt has removed from office John D. Olyphant, registrar; J. A. Trotter, receiver, and I. J. Chapman, clerk, of the land office of Mangum, Ok., for irregularities in the conduct of the business of the office.

MOYER CHARGES CONSPIRACY.

Knows Nothing of Steunenberg Killing, Says Miners' Official.

Boise, Idaho, March 9.—Charles H. Moyer, William D. Haywood and George E. Pettibone have filed their answers in the supreme court to the return made by Warden Whitney of the penitentiary in the habeas corpus proceedings. The answer states Moyer was not in Caldwell at the time of the assassination of Frank Steunenberg. Moyer states that Governor Gooding, J. H. Hawley and Owen Van Dusen, the county attorney, knew he was not in Idaho on Dec. 30, the date of the assassination, and charges a conspiracy to secure his arrest and removal from Colorado in violation of the constitution and was kidnapped and removed from Colorado in defiance of the constitution and laws.

one woman in twenty-five but that suffers from some derangement of the female organism, and this is the secret of so many unhappy homes.

No woman can be amiable, light-hearted and happy, a joy to her husband and children, and perform the duties incumbent upon her, when she is suffering with backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bearing-down pains, displacements, spinal weakness or diseased organs.

Irritability and snappy retorts take the place of pleasantness, and all sunshine is driven out of the home, and lives are wrecked by woman's great enemy—menstrual trouble.

Read this letter:

Dear Mr. Pinkham:—

I was troubled eight years with irregularities which broke down my health and brought on extreme nervousness and despondency. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to be the only medicine which helped me. Day by day I improved in health while taking it until I was entirely cured. I can attend to my social and household duties and thoroughly enjoy life once more, as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman without an ache or a pain.

Mrs. Chester Curry, 42 Saratoga Street, East Boston, Mass.

At the first indication of ill health, painful or irregular periods, pain in the side, headache, backache, bearing-down pains, nervousness or "the blues," secure at once a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

WINTER ECZEMA SKIN HARD AND DRY

Some skin diseases are active in Summer, while others wait until cold weather to manifest themselves. Winter Eczema sleeps in the system through the long hot months, and gives no sign of its presence; but at the coming of Winter the trouble asserts itself and it becomes one of the most painful and distressing of all skin diseases. The blood is filled with poisonous acids which seem to be excited by the cold; and as these are thrown off through the pores and glands, the skin cracks and bleeds, the flesh becomes hot and feverish and the itching intense. The natural oils which keep the skin soft and pliant are dried up by the cold, bleak winds, causing it to become hard and dry, giving it that shiny, leathery appearance characteristic of the disease. The head, face, hands and feet are the usual points of attack, though other parts of the body may be affected. So painful and distressing is the trouble that the sufferer constantly "doctors" and treats it trying to get relief. Soothing washes, medicated ointments and salves are used, but aside from giving temporary relief they do no good. The cause is poisonous acids in the blood, and these must be removed before a cure can be effected. The only cure for Winter Eczema is S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers. It cleanses the entire blood supply of the acid poisons and sends a fresh, healthy stream to the diseased skin, healing and softening it and curing the painful, itching eruptions. "S. S. S." enters the blood and purifies it of all waste and foreign matter, and cures Winter Eczema—or better as it is sometimes called—safely as well as surely; besides it does not contain any harmful mineral, to derange or damage any part of the system.
